- 3 Adding inventory at scale
- 4 Builders: projects and units
- 5 Working your leads
- 6 Applications and closing a tenancy
- 7 Cambliss marketing packages
- 8 Reading campaign performance
- 9 Commission and invoicing
- 10 Common questions

1. The deal for agents and builders

Most portals charge you per listing, per lead, or per month for the privilege of appearing at all. Odibrick does not. The inventory side is free and uncapped, and the platform earns from completed tenancies and from marketing you choose to buy.

WHAT YOU GET FREE	ALWAYS
Unlimited property and unit inventory	No cap, no per-listing fee
A verified business profile with your RERA number	Free
Leads, enquiries and site-visit tracking	Free
Views and conversion analytics per listing	Free
Transaction support through to the agreement	Free
Verification of your listings	Free

WHAT COSTS MONEY	WHEN
Annual commission	Only when a tenancy actually starts. Charged per tenancy year.
Cambliss marketing packages	Only if you buy one. From ₹7,999 for 30 days.

WORTH KNOWING

Featured placement is tied to a live paid campaign and nothing else. There is no way to buy a permanent boost, and when your campaign ends the flag clears automatically. Everyone's listings compete on the same terms the rest of the time.

2. Setting up a verified business profile

1 Register with the right account type

At `/register`, choose I am an agent or I am a builder. The two accounts behave differently: builders get projects and unit inventory, agents get a straight property list.

2 Verify your own identity

Account → Identity. Required before you can publish anything. One to two working days.

3 Complete the business details

Under Account → Profile. Agency or company name, RERA registration number, GSTIN, and for builders the CIN and website.

How your profile appears publicly

Contact details are never shown publicly. Enquiries route through Odibrick so there is a record of who asked for what, and when.

YOUR BUSINESS PROFILE, AND HOW IT APPEARS TO RENTERS

NOTE

Your phone number and email never appear on a public profile. This is deliberate: it stops your contact list being scraped, and it means every enquiry arrives with a timestamp and an audit trail rather than as an untraceable call.

3. Adding inventory at scale

Each property goes through the same ten-step wizard as an owner listing. Two features exist specifically to make volume manageable.

Duplicate a listing

From any property in your inventory, Duplicate creates a new draft with everything copied except the unit-specific details. For a tower where you are letting six near-identical 2 BHKs, this turns an hour into ten minutes.

Draft, then publish in a batch

Every step of the wizard saves. Build your drafts across the week, then submit them for verification together when the photographs are ready.

AGENT INVENTORY WITH PER-LISTING PERFORMANCE

The completeness score

Every listing carries a completeness percentage. It is not decoration — it reflects how much of the listing is filled in, and incomplete listings get meaningfully fewer enquiries. Anything below 80% is worth ten minutes.

4. Builders: projects and units

A builder account adds a layer above properties: the project. A project holds its own name, location, status, total unit count and possession date, and individual units hang off it.

A BUILDER PROJECT

Practical notes

- Register the project first, then add units to it. Units created without a project are harder to present coherently to a buyer.
- Your RERA number appears on the public project page. It is one of the strongest trust signals available to you — fill it in.
- Possession dates are visible to buyers. An optimistic date that slips is worse for you than a realistic one.
- Unit inventory is free and uncapped, exactly like agent inventory.

5. Working your leads

Enquiries land under Listing → Leads, each tied to a property and timestamped.

STATUS	WHAT IT MEANS	WHAT TO DO
New	Nobody has responded.	Respond. Speed is the whole game here.
Contacted	You have replied.	Move it toward a viewing.
Visit scheduled	A viewing is booked.	Confirm the day before.
Closed	Dead, or converted.	Record which, so your numbers mean something.

NOTE

Schedule viewings through the platform rather than over the phone. A viewing in the system has a date, a time and a record — useful for your own follow-up discipline, and useful if a client later disputes what was shown.

What your analytics actually tell you

Each listing shows views, enquiries and applications. The ratios matter more than the absolute numbers:

PATTERN	LIKELY CAUSE	FIX
Low views	Poor placement or a narrow locality.	Check the completeness score. Consider a campaign.
Views but no enquiries	The listing looks wrong on the page.	Usually photographs or a thin description. Both are free to fix.
Enquiries but no applications	Something surfaces on contact.	Often the deposit, or terms that were not clear on the listing.
Applications but no tenancies	Falling over at acceptance or legal.	Look at your response time on applications.

6. Applications and closing a tenancy

Applications you receive work exactly as they do for an owner. Every applicant has already had their identity verified by a person — unverified users cannot apply at all.

IMPORTANT

Accepting is consequential. It creates the tenancy, opens a legal case and pauses the listing in a single transaction. Other applicants are not auto-rejected — decline them yourself once you have decided, with a reason. It takes seconds and it is the difference between a professional operation and a black hole.

After acceptance, Odibrick's legal team drafts the agreement and runs a video consultation with the parties. You are not responsible for drafting, and you should not be supplying your own template — the platform's clause library is reviewed and versioned, and the agreement is approved by a qualified professional before signature.

7. Cambliss marketing packages

This is the paid product, and it is genuinely optional. What you are buying is a campaign run by the Cambliss team: creative, paid media, landing pages and qualified leads, with performance reported into your dashboard.

Marketing packages

Starter — ₹7,999 / 30 days

1 featured slot · basic creative · platform placement

Growth — ₹24,999 / 30 days

3 featured slots · creative production · paid social · lead capture

Premium — ₹59,999 / 30 days

THE PACKAGE CATALOGUE

How ordering works

1 Choose a package and link your properties

Under Listing → Marketing. Select the properties you want promoted and write a brief describing what you are trying to achieve.

2 Pay the invoice

An invoice is raised on your ledger with a reference. The campaign cannot go live until it is settled — the system blocks that transition rather than extending informal credit.

3 Cambliss produces and launches

The campaign moves through Requested → Approved → In production → Scheduled → Live. You can see the stage at any point.

4 Featured placement switches on

When the campaign goes live, your linked properties are flagged as promoted. When it is paused or completed, the flag clears automatically.

NOTE

Enterprise packages are a custom quote rather than a fixed price. Ordering one raises a request, and the Cambliss team comes back with a scoped proposal before anything is charged.

CAMPAIGN PERFORMANCE

What to look at, and in what order

METRIC	READ IT AS
Cost per lead	The only number that matters commercially. Compare it against what a tenancy is worth to you.
Click-through rate	Whether the creative is landing. Below about 1% suggests the ad is not speaking to the audience.
Leads versus clicks	Whether the landing experience converts. Lots of clicks and few leads points at the listing page, not the ad.
Views in period, per property	Which specific properties the campaign actually moved.

NOTE

Campaign figures come from the campaign record, which the Cambliss team updates from the ad platforms. Where a number has not been reported yet, the dashboard shows nothing rather than an estimate.

9. Commission and invoicing

When a tenancy you brokered starts, a commission is generated for that tenancy year and invoiced. It appears on the ledger with its own reference, like every other payment.

PLAN	COMMISSION	PAYER
Standard	50% of one month's rent	Owner, by default
Protected	85% of one month's rent	Owner, by default
Managed	6% of annual rent	Owner, by default

Commission rules carry a date range and can be city-specific. Whichever rule was in force when a tenancy started governs that tenancy for its whole life — a later rule change does not reprice it.

10. Common questions

Is there really no limit on listings?

None. No cap, no fee, no expiry. Nothing in the property module checks for a subscription before letting you publish.

Can I bulk-upload inventory from a spreadsheet?

Not in this version. Use Duplicate on a similar listing, which handles most of the repetition for a tower or a project.

Do I need a RERA number?

Legally that depends on your state and what you are doing. On Odibrick it is optional but strongly recommended — it appears on your public profile and it is one of the few trust signals a renter can check independently.

Will buying a package guarantee me tenancies?

No, and anyone who tells you otherwise is selling something. A package buys reach. Whether that reach converts depends on your pricing, your photographs and how fast you answer enquiries.

Can I keep featured placement after my campaign ends?

No. The flag is cleared automatically when a campaign is paused or completed. This is enforced in code.

What happens if I list a property I do not have the right to let?

Verification checks ownership documents, and duplicate-address detection flags the same property listed twice. Both go to a human reviewer. Listings that cannot be substantiated are rejected.

Can my whole team use one account?

One account per person is better — every action is audited with the actor's identity, and a shared login destroys that. Team size is a profile field, not a licence count.

Who drafts the rental agreement?

Odibrick's legal team, from a reviewed clause library, approved by a qualified professional before signature. You do not supply a template and you are not responsible for the drafting.

Where to get help

Account → Support raises a ticket. For campaign questions, your Cambliss campaign manager is named on the campaign record.
