1. The commercial deal, stated plainly

Before anything else, here is exactly what Odibrick costs you, because it is unusual enough to be worth stating up front.

WHAT	COST
Listing a property	Free. No listing fee, no cap on how many, no time limit, no paywall on publishing.
Verification of your listing	Free.
Legal drafting and the video consultation	Included in the plan you choose for the tenancy.
Annual commission	Charged only when a tenancy actually starts . On the standard plan it is 50% of one month's rent for the year; on Protected it is 85%; on Managed it is 6% of annual rent. Plus GST.
Cambliss marketing packages	Optional and separate. From ₹7,999 for 30 days. You never need to buy one to have your property listed or seen.

WORTH KNOWING

Nothing in the property module checks for a subscription. Free unlimited listing is enforced in code, not just promised in marketing copy. If you list twelve properties and none of them rents, Odibrick has earned nothing from you — which is the intended alignment.

What you get for the commission

- A tenant whose identity has been verified by a person, not a checkbox.
- An agreement drafted from a reviewed clause library and approved by a qualified legal professional before anyone signs.
- A video consultation where both parties agree the terms on the record.
- A payment ledger where every rupee has a reference and a receipt.
- A timestamped condition record of your property, acknowledged by the tenant.
- A dispute process backed by that record if things go wrong.

2. Your account and identity

1 Register as an owner

At `/register`, choose List my property. Use an email you check — applications and payment notifications arrive there.

2 Verify your identity before anything else

You cannot publish a listing until your identity is verified. Go to Account → Identity, submit your document, and wait one to two working days for a person to review it.

If you try to add a property before verifying, Odibrick redirects you here and explains why, rather than letting you complete ten steps and then refusing at the end.

3. Listing a property

From Listing → My properties, choose Add a property. The wizard has ten steps and saves a draft at every one, so you can stop and come back. Nothing is visible to renters until you submit it and our team verifies it.

THE LISTING WIZARD — STEP 3 OF 10

The ten steps

STEP	WHAT IT ASKS	WORTH KNOWING
1. Purpose	Rent, sale or PG	Renting runs the full process: verification, legal, agreement, payments, condition reports.
2. Property type	Apartment, house, villa, studio...	Affects how it is filtered.
3. Location	Address, locality, city, PIN	The exact address stays private. Search shows locality only.
4. Configuration	Bedrooms, bathrooms, furnishing, parking
5. Area & floor	Carpet and built-up area, floor, age, facing	Carpet area is what renters actually compare.
6. Pricing	Rent, deposit, maintenance, lock-in, notice	These are a starting position, not binding terms.
7. Amenities	Lift, power backup, security, gym...
8. Availability	Available from, preferred tenants, pets	See the warning below.
9. Description	Title and description	At least 80 characters. Vague listings get far fewer serious enquiries.
10. Photographs	At least four to publish	Checked against your ownership documents during verification.

IMPORTANT

On step 8 you can state a tenant preference. Refusing tenants on grounds such as religion or caste is unlawful in India, and listings that do so are removed. The wizard says this on the screen, and it is not decorative.

Pricing: the three numbers renters actually compare

Rent, deposit and maintenance are shown separately on your listing and totalled into a move-in cost. A renter deciding between two flats sees that total, so an aggressive deposit will cost you enquiries even if your rent is competitive.

Pricing

Monthly rent

28,000

Security deposit

Maintenance

Monthly

Lock-in (months)

6

Notice period (days)

Lock-in and notice go into the agreement, and the legal team will walk both parties through them before anyone signs.

THE PRICING STEP

Photographs

Four minimum. Practically, listings with eight to twelve good photographs get materially more enquiries than ones with four. Photograph every room, the kitchen and bathrooms properly, the balcony view, the building entrance, and the parking. Shoot in daylight.

NOTE

Photographs go to your private document vault and are attached to the listing. During verification our team checks them against the ownership documents you supplied — which is part of why a badge on this platform means something.

4. Verification and publishing

1 Submit for verification

On the last step. The system re-checks completeness on the server, so if something required is missing you will be told exactly what.

2 Our team reviews it

Usually within two working days. They check the ownership documents, your identity, the address and the photographs.

3 It publishes, with seals

Each check that passes becomes a seal on your listing. Four seals is a fully verified property, and renters can filter for exactly that.

What has been verified

KYC VERIFIED

OWNER VERIFIED

DOCUMENTS VERIFIED

ADDRESS VERIFIED

Checks not listed above have not been completed.

VERIFICATION SEALS AS A RENTER SEES THEM

If it is rejected

You get a reason — the system requires one. Common causes are illegible ownership documents, photographs that do not match the stated property, or an address that cannot be confirmed. Fix it and resubmit; there is no penalty.

YOUR PROPERTY INVENTORY

5. Enquiries and leads

Enquiries arrive under Listing → Leads. Each one is timestamped and tied to a property, so you can see which listing is actually generating interest and which is not.

Respond quickly

Response time is the single biggest lever you control. A renter who sends four enquiries on a Saturday morning will usually have committed to something by Monday. Your response rate is visible to our team and factors into how listings are surfaced.

Scheduling viewings

Arrange viewings through the platform rather than over the phone. A viewing in the system has a date, a time and a record — which matters if a renter later claims they were never shown the property, or if you need to demonstrate that you gave reasonable access.

6. Reviewing applications and choosing a tenant

AN APPLICATION, AS YOU SEE IT

What to look at

SIGNAL	WHAT IT TELLS YOU
Identity verified	A person on our team checked their government ID against their name. An unverified applicant cannot apply at all, so every application you see has cleared this.
Occupants and household type	Compare against what the property can actually take. An occupancy figure that turns out wrong on move-in day is a breach of the agreement you are about to sign.
Move-in date	Becomes the tenancy start date in the agreement.
Tenure	Eleven or twelve months is standard. Longer is usually better for you.
Their message	Two sentences of context tells you more than the form fields do.

IMPORTANT

Accepting is consequential. The moment you accept, three things happen in one transaction: a tenancy is created, a legal case is opened, and your listing is paused so nobody else applies. The confirmation screen spells this out rather than hiding it behind a one-click button. Other applicants are not automatically rejected — decline them yourself if you have decided.

Declining well

A reason is required and it is shared with the applicant. Already committed to another applicant is a complete and honest answer. It costs you nothing and it saves someone a week of waiting.

7. The consultation and the agreement

Once you accept, Odibrick's legal team takes over the drafting. You will be invited to a video consultation with the tenant.

On the call

- A member of the legal team walks both parties through the terms.
- You agree the specifics: deposit refund window, who pays for which repairs, lock-in, notice, any rent escalation on renewal.
- The outcome is recorded as a note on the case.
- The draft is then written to match what was agreed.

AN AGREEMENT READY FOR YOUR SIGNATURE

1 Check every number

Rent, deposit, maintenance, dates, lock-in, notice. If any of it differs from what was agreed on the call, raise it before signing.

2 Note who approved it

The page names the legal professional who approved this exact version. If the draft is changed afterwards, that approval is cancelled automatically and it must be reviewed again — an edit cannot slip past approval to a signature.

3 Sign

Your signature is recorded with a timestamp and IP address. The agreement becomes Executed only when both parties have signed.

IMPORTANT

An executed agreement here is a signed document, not a registered one. Stamp duty and registration are state-specific and remain your responsibility. The platform tracks the stamping status but does not pay duty for you.

8. Receiving the deposit and rent

The moment the agreement is executed, Odibrick raises the move-in dues on the ledger — deposit and first month — each with a reference number.

Odibrick does not hold your money. Payments settle directly to you or through a licensed provider.

YOUR SIDE OF THE LEDGER – INCOMING PAYMENTS

How money actually moves

Odibrick is non-custodial by default. The tenant transfers to you directly, quoting the reference code, and an Odibrick operator matches the credit against the bank statement before marking it paid. If a licensed payment gateway is enabled on your deployment, collection runs through that instead.

NOTE

A payment is never marked paid because someone says it was. It needs either a verified provider callback or an operator who has matched a real bank reference. That protects you as much as it protects the tenant.

What happens next

When both move-in payments clear, the tenancy moves automatically to Check-in pending and the tenant is asked to file the Day 1 condition report.

9. The Day 1 condition report

The tenant photographs the property room by room on the day they take possession. You then review and acknowledge it. This is worth your careful attention, because it is the document a deposit deduction gets checked against at the end of the tenancy.

This report is waiting for your response

Read through it carefully. Once both parties acknowledge, it becomes the agreed record of the property's condition. If something is wrong or missing, say so now rather than later.

I agree with this record

Something is wrong

ACKNOWLEDGING THE TENANT'S CONDITION REPORT

- 1

Read every item, not just the flagged ones

The report covers seven rooms and the elements in each. Look at what has been marked Good as well as what has been marked Damaged.
- 2

Check the photographs

Each attachment shows two timestamps: the time the tenant's device reported, and the time the file reached our servers. Only the second is trustworthy, and both are displayed.

3

Disagree now, not later

If the tenant has recorded damage that was not there, or missed damage that was, say so at this point. Choosing Something is wrong flags a disagreement on the record instead of silently overwriting it.

4

Acknowledge

When both parties have acknowledged, the report is sealed and the tenancy becomes Active.

WORTH KNOWING

If you skip this step, you are relying on the tenant's unopposed account of your property's condition. Ten minutes now is worth considerably more than an argument in eleven months.

10. During the tenancy

Maintenance requests

Requests arrive with a ticket number, a category, a priority and usually a photograph. You approve, reject or schedule them, and you record who bears the cost.

RESPONDING TO A MAINTENANCE REQUEST

COST BEARER	WHEN IT APPLIES
Owner	Structural issues, appliance failure, anything from normal ageing.
Tenant	Damage the tenant caused, consumables, blockages from misuse.
Shared	Where responsibility is genuinely mixed and you have agreed a split.
Undecided	Use while you work it out. It is honest and it is recorded.

NOTE

Emergency-priority requests mean something is actively causing damage. Treat them as such — a delayed response to a real emergency is the kind of thing that ends up in a dispute with a timestamp attached to it.

Rent

Monthly rent is raised on the ledger with a due date. If a tenant falls behind, the record shows exactly what was due and when — which is far more useful than a recollection if it ever escalates.

11. Renewal, commission and move-out

The annual commission

The commission is generated when the tenancy starts, for the first year, and again for each renewal year. It appears on your ledger as an invoice with its own reference.

PLAN	COMMISSION	BASIS
Standard	50% of one month's rent	Per tenancy year, plus GST
Protected	85% of one month's rent	Includes condition reports, legal support and eligible partner insurance
Managed	6% of annual rent	Full management

NOTE

Changing a commission rule does not retroactively reprice existing tenancies. Whatever rule applied when your tenancy started is the rule that governs it.

Move-out

The tenant files a move-out condition report. Odibrick compares it against the Day 1 record automatically, element by element, and shows what changed.

Compared with the Day 1 record

2 items changed, 34 unchanged

Kitchen · Appliances Fair → Damaged

Bathroom · Fixtures Fair → Damaged

This comparison is a record, not a determination of liability.

THE AUTOMATIC MOVE-OUT COMPARISON

IMPORTANT

Read that line carefully, because it constrains you as well as protecting you. Odibrick produces the diff; it does not rule on who owes what, and it will not deduct from a deposit on your say-so. Fair wear and tear over a year is not damage. A deduction needs either the tenant's agreement or a dispute resolution.

12. Marketing packages

Entirely optional. Your listing is free, unlimited and visible without ever buying one. What a package buys is reach — Cambliss runs a campaign with creative, paid media and landing pages, and reports the performance back into your dashboard.

PACKAGE	PRICE	FOR
Starter	₹7,999 / 30 days	One property that is not moving.
Growth	₹24,999 / 30 days	A small portfolio, or a competitive locality.
Premium	₹59,999 / 30 days	Sustained visibility across a city.
Builder Enterprise	Custom quote	Project launches.

NOTE

Featured placement exists only while a paid campaign is actually live. When a campaign is paused or completed, the flag is cleared automatically. You do not keep a promoted slot you are no longer paying for, and nobody else does either.

13. Common questions

Is listing really free, with no catch?

Yes. There is no listing fee, no cap and no time limit, and nothing in the code checks for a subscription before letting you publish. Odibrick earns when a tenancy starts, not when you upload.

Can I list a property I manage but do not own?

Register as an agent instead. The verification process checks ownership documents, and an agent account is the correct structure for managing someone else's inventory.

Who sees my exact address?

You, our verification team, and a tenant whose application you have accepted. Search results and public property pages show locality and city only.

Can I refuse a tenant for any reason?

You choose your tenant. But refusing on grounds such as religion or caste is unlawful in India, and listings or conduct that do so are removed from the platform.

What if I want to sell the property mid-tenancy?

That depends on your agreement and on state law. Raise it with the legal team through a support ticket before you commit to anything.

Does Odibrick guarantee my rent?

No. Odibrick records payments and provides a dispute process. It is not a guarantor, an insurer or a debt collector. Protection products, where offered, are issued by licensed insurers and are separate from the platform.

Can I deduct from the deposit myself?

No. Odibrick will not move a deduction through on your say-so. You need the tenant's agreement, or a resolution through the dispute process.

What happens to my listing when I accept an application?

It is paused immediately, so no further applications arrive. If the tenancy falls through before the agreement is executed, support can reactivate it.

How many photographs should I upload?

Four is the minimum. Eight to twelve gets materially more enquiries. It is the cheapest improvement available to you.

Where to get help

Account → Support raises a ticket, which creates a record and is faster than any other route. Quote the reference of whatever you are asking about — a property, a payment reference, an agreement number.
